Re Bureau airtel to Richmond, 3/26/62.

On 3/28/62, RONALD HADLEY STARK, aka Ronald Shtitsky, Apartment 320, Tyler Building, Arlington, Virginia, telephone 527-1435, was interviewed by SAS [redacted], and [redacted] STARK declined to be placed under oath stating he did not understand the full implication of such.

b6
b7C

STARK stated that he was employed about May or June, 1961, and began work for the Bureau of Ships as head of Technical Analysis and Operations Research in the main Navy building, Washington, D. C. He said that around September or October, 1961, he was sent on loan to the Defense Department where he worked until about January, 1962. He was in the office of the Deputy Director of Defense, Research and Engineering in the Pentagon Building.

STARK stated that he never has seen, to the best of his knowledge, any type of FBI report or information in the Navy or Department of Defense records which was indicated to have come from an FBI source. He said he did not have access to any FBI reports or data in his official capacity and never came in contact with such through an improper check or intrusion of Navy or Department of Defense files or records. STARK advised he had never informed anyone he had seen an FBI report or their name on an FBI list.

[redacted] STARK related that he has been acquainted with [redacted] and [redacted] for four or five months. He said he became acquainted with them through purchasing prints, etc., from them in Georgetown, Washington, D. C. He stated that he had talked to the [redacted] about going into business buying art reproductions and selling them as reproductions and not as originals.

STARK specifically denied he had ever told the [redacted] that he had seen their names on an FBI list. He said that on one occasion he and the [redacted] were drinking and discussing people signing petitions and attending rallies. [redacted] or [redacted] mentioned that they had attended a meeting or demonstration and STARK said he believed it was said to have been in opposition to resumption of nuclear testing. STARK said either [redacted] or [redacted] asked him if the FBI kept lists of people who attended these things. He said he assumed they asked him this because he worked for the U. S. Government. He advised he told him he believed, although he had no knowledge, that the FBI did keep lists or maintain information on people who are subversive and he did not know if attending such meetings was a basis for being thought to be subversive.

STARK advised he never said anything to the [redacted] to cultivate the impression he knew the FBI had a list of persons or that they were so listed. STARK stated they had no other conversation in this connection but that the [redacted] told him they had been looking for the home of someone who had bought a set of encyclopedias and pulled into the Navy Service Center in Arlington, Virginia, and guards immediately descended upon them. STARK said the [redacted] asked him if he knew what this place was and he merely told them it was a secure installation. According to STARK, the [redacted] said they were subsequently visited by a representative of a security agency and asked what they were doing at the Navy Service Center. The [redacted] reportedly said they did not believe the representative was from the FBI but could have been an FBI agent.

STARK was questioned as to whether he would be willing to be interviewed with the assistance of a polygraph, and he stated he saw no reason for such, that his word stood for itself.

STARK was emphatically advised that he should in the future refrain from making any statement to anyone regarding FBI information obtained by him through official access or from sources to which he did not have legitimate access. In addition, STARK was warned in no uncertain terms of the possibility of the prosecutive action for disclosure of FBI information and told that the FBI would be alert for any such reports of his activities in the future.

STARK showed no indication during the interview of violence.

STARK furnished the following description of himself during the interview:

New York, New York
December 4, 1967

Ronald Hadley Stark

Mr. Ronald Hadley Stark, 336 West 12th Street,
New York City, furnished the following information:

In December, 1966, while visiting in Paris, France,
he purchased a rare book entitled, "L'ordre des Oiseaux",
from [redacted]

Inasmuch as [redacted] spoke very poor English, and he, Stark, was not fluent in French, he brought a friend who is fluent in both languages to [redacted] store to translate for them.

He and [redacted] finally agreed on a price of $850.00 for the book. However, [redacted] told him that he had to have 2 checks for $850.00 for the book in order to comply with the French Government regulations regarding works of art. [redacted] told him that in order to ship a work of art out of the country of France, he had to fill out a form and present it with one check to either the Ministry of Art or the Keeper of the Archives. [redacted] said that when the sale was approved he would destroy one check.

Stark said that he did not understand why he had to issue 2 checks for the book, and that [redacted] explanation seemed highly suspicious to him. However, he decided to go along with it on [redacted] assurance that he would destroy one check.

Stark further advised that because he was suspicious of the transaction, he wrote the checks on his account at the Barclays Bank of California, where he had a balance of only $1,000.00. He felt that if [redacted] was trying to trick him, one of the checks would not clear the bank and he would not lose any money.

He did not recall if he actually asked the bank to stop payment on the check, but may have done so when he returned to the United States.

Ronald Hadley Stark

The book was not shipped to him by [ ] but was taken by him when he issued the checks.

b6
b7C

Since purchasing the book, he received several letters from [ ] demanding payment of an additional $850.00 for the book, and has received a letter from the French Consul's Office in New York City. He called this office and explained the transaction to them. The advised that they would make a record of his explanation.

Since returning to the United States, he has had the book appraised by an art dealer and was advised it was worth between $600.00 and $1,000.00.

Stark advised he was born on April 9, 1938.

The records of the Credit Bureau of Greater New York, contain a record dated October 7, 1966, regarding Ronald Hadley Stark, 336 West 12th Street, New York City. His former address was 418 East 76th Street, New York City, New York. His business was Calbiochem, 3655 Medford Street, Los Angeles, California. A former employment was at the Cornell University Medical School, 1300 York Avenue, New York City. His banking was done at the First National Bank, 1st Avenue and 69th Street, New York City.

The file contained no derogatory information.

In connection with another matter, the following information regarding Stark was obtained in 1963:

Stark was employed by the Bureau of Ships, United States Navy, from June, 1961 to February 27, 1962, when he resigned.

Stark was subsequently exposed as a pathological liar who falsified his application and other official papers, in connection with his Government employment.

In addition, a sworn statement was obtained from an individual who alleged that Stark attempted to interest him in a scheme to forge works of art for sale on a nationwide basis.

Ronald Hadley Stark

It is noted that in connection with his falsification of his application for Government employment, Stark entered a plea of guilty in United States District Court, Southern District of New York, about January, 1963, to a charge of violation of Section 1001, Title 18, United States Code (False Statements or Entries).

This investigation further developed that Stark was born on April 9, 1938, at New York City, as Ronald Shbitsky. His name was legally changed on September 8, 1953. He gave his mother's name as Leah Stark, 2198 Crueger Avenue, New York City.
